Abney Hall

Surrounded by nature...

Set within the grounds of Abney Park, Abney Hall is a Grade-II listed building constructed in 1847 and surrounded by landscaped gardens and over 200 acres of stunning parkland.

And history

Built initially as a private home, the original hall benefits from intricate Victorian architecture and unique period features designed by A.N.N. Pugin and J.G. Crace – the interior designers who worked on St. Stephen’s Chapel in the Houses of Parliament.

Internally, the grand main entrance gives way to an ornately tiled hallway and carved wooden staircase that leads you to a collection of characterfull small suites. With unique period features ranging from historic fireplaces, stained glass windows and even chandeliers featuring in some our office spaces, Abney Hall is sure to make a lasting impression.

Rich in heritage

Originally built in 1847 by cotton magnate Alfred Orell, the mansion has seen many famous faces over the years: Prince Albert - Queen Victoria's husband, Victorian Prime Minister Benjamin Disraeli, King Edward VII, Prime Minister William Gladstone and Agatha Christie, who was a frequent visitor, penned two novels here.

In 1878 owner Sir James Watts left the hall to his family until the last Mr. Watts moved out in 1958. Abney Hall was then sold, becoming Cheadle Town Hall, where it stayed with the council for over two decades.

Bruntwood took over the property in 1983 to develop statement workspaces rich in history and character. Much of the original features remain, and the reimagined suites draw influence from its original British heritage, creating classic and timeless spaces.

Sustainability at Bruntwood

At Bruntwood, we work to create thriving cities

Recognising the urgency of the climate crisis, and driven to create change from within the commercial property sector, we are committed to developing a sustainable and fair future for our communities by reinventing with the planet in mind.

We've committed to operating at net zero in the spaces that we control by 2030 - but we know that it's what we do in the immediate future that really matters.

In Didsbury, we're building the UK's lowest carbon new build workspace - EvØ. This fully electric building will have a unique, sustainably-sourced, timber frame that will be capable of absorbing and storing high volumes of carbon.

We're also investing heavily in renewable energy and, in 2022, we purchased an industry-first 42.4% share in Kirk Hill wind farm (Scotland). By spring 2024, we'll be able to fulfil 80% of Bruntwood's current electricity demand through renewable energy - a huge milestone in achieving our net zero ambitions and supporting the industry's transition to sustainable energy.
